

Table of contents

Editor's note	1
1. Introduction	2
2. Housing policies and practices	3
2.1 Latest trends in housing policies for long-term assignments	3	3.4 Temporary accommodation in host location	14
2.1.1 How to determine the amounts the assignees should contribute to?	4	3.5 Household goods shipment arrangements	14
2.1.2 What type of expatriate accommodation do companies pay for?	7	3.6 Household goods storage arrangements	15
2.1.3 Furnished or unfurnished accommodation?	7	3.7 Lease contract ends	15
2.1.4 House purchase in the host country	8
2.2 Housing policies for other type of transfers	8	4. How to use the Mercer housing tables	16
2.2.1 Regional transfers and the local plus approach	8	4.1 Mercer expatriate accommodation monthly rental costs tables	16
2.2.2 Localised expatriates and permanent transfers	9	4.2 Creating your own housing tables	17
2.2.3 Short-term and project base assignments	9	4.3 How to deal with rapid market rental cost increases	17
2.3 How are host location housing costs determined?	9	4.4 Housing in difficult locations	18
2.4 How to deal with the additional housing-related costs	10
2.5 Housing taxation	12	5. Expatriate accommodation rental costs tables in 50 major cities	21
		Appendix 1 Housing allowance calculation example	329
3. Additional housing-related relocation support	13	Appendix 2 Home housing norm tables (Japan, Singapore, South Korea, United States, Brazil, United Kingdom, France)	330
3.1 Pre-assignment visit	14	Appendix 3 Housing taxation	337
3.2 Transfer/moving and settling-in allowances	14	Appendix 4 List of international schools	346
3.3 Temporary accommodation in home location	14

