

LOGISTICS INDUSTRY FORUM MEMBERSHIP (EUROPE)

FOCUSING ON PRIORITIES OF TODAY
WITH THE VISION OF TOMORROW

Growth in global trade, new consumer requirements, ever-bigger vessels, and complex supply management chains are increasing the pressure on logistics firms to raise their operational capacities and seek new ways to manage costs.

With continued business growth, human capital management is becoming even more important for the survival and future expansion of the logistics business. Companies, therefore, must employ an effective strategy to retain suitable human capital.

Mercer's Global Logistics Industry Forum supports clients in the sector by helping them respond to these evolving organisational requirements and industry trends.

WHY JOIN MERCER'S LOGISTICS INDUSTRY FORUM?

- Mercer's Logistics Industry Forum is a global platform where you can access unparalleled expertise and insights based on a truly worldwide presence.
- We focus on the most critical business challenges of the sector to help you make the right human capital decisions based on research and facts.
- Other than sharing experience and knowledge with peers within your region, you can also reach out to global members to get a broader perspective of what's happening now and how it will impact your organisation in the future.
- With access to a wide range of Mercer's workforce management information at the local, regional and global levels in the areas of rewards, mobility, metrics and benefits, you can quickly and easily tackle most of your human capital issues.

In addition, Mercer's Logistics Forum is designed to facilitate discussion and dialog on key HR issues faced by the sector today and, most likely, in the future.
